

GREATEST HITS: I-90 ADVENTURES

Your favorite tunes, endless sky and a bag of Dakota Style Sunflower Seeds: That's the recipe for a road trip to remember. As you make your way along I-90, make time for these sweet stops, shops and photo-ops.

D.C. BOOTH FISH HATCHERY

You can't put a price tag on free fun. Feed the fish and dive into history at one of the oldest fish hatcheries in the country (it spawned its first trout in 1896). You can also picnic in one of Spearfish's serene parks while you're around.

WALL DRUG

Driving past Wall Drug is like going to your grandma's house on a full stomach - unthinkable. Don't let the crazy Americana distract you; the famous maple donuts are the headline attraction here. (They're even greater than the 5-cent coffee and Wild West art gallery.) Get a dozen to go, but be warned, they might disappear before you hit the next exit.

PIONEER AUTO SHOW

If History Channel's American Pickers opened up a roadside museum, it would probably look a lot like Pioneer Auto Show. Explore generations of pop culture in this massive collection of a little bit of everything.

THE WORLD'S ONLY CORN PALACE

Of all the roadside attractions in the known universe, none are cornier than Mitchell's maize shrine. And that's a certified fact. Anyone with a taste for wacky attractions will cherish a pic in front of this popping destination.

MAIN STREET SQUARE

The heart of Rapid City's downtown is only minutes away from the interstate. Kids love Main Street Square's splash fountains, while parents love the surrounding shops and the energy kids burn off in said fountains.

GIANT PRAIRIE DOG

The Giant Prairie Dog is for all the people who've looked at a prairie dog and thought, "It's cool, but I wish it was bigger." This six-ton, 12-foot-tall effigy is circled by an actual prairie dog colony, full of critters we can only assume worship this statue as their concrete overlord.

DIGNITY: OF EARTH & SKY

Three Native American models (ages 14, 29 and 55) inspired the face of this 90-foot sculpture, made to honor South Dakota's storied Lakota culture. This stainless steel masterpiece, found about 90 seconds off I-90, overlooks the Missouri River and Chamberlain's historic double-barrel bridge.

FALLS PARK

A few strides from downtown roars Sioux Falls' namesake and the biggest attraction, Falls Park. Seven thousand gallons of Big Sioux River tumble over the falls every second, making it a delight for both eyes and ears.
